THE following Collection of SCRIPTURE REFERENCES may be useful to private Christians; but its chief design is to assist Parents and Teachers in the important work of instructing and examining the young. A few verses to be committed to memory, may be prescribed to each learner, as a weekly exercise. Suppose that a parent were to take the charge of twelve learners,—a number which he might easily collect, by taking the children of some neighbour, along with the children and domestics of his own family,—six verses given to each would exhaust the first subject taken up in these References, and enable him to exhibit, at one view, the chief passages of God's Word, which treated of the importance and utility of Revelation. By following the order of the References from week to week, he carries on a connected series of Scriptural examination. In this way topics will be suggested, on which a teacher of piety and feeling may expatiate with effect. A bare repetition of verses from the Bible will, it is hoped, not be without its efficacy; and, in many cases, the teacher will have the talent of taking up the topics of examination, and urging them on the attention and consciences of his pupils. Without superseding the other exercises of a Religious School, it is conceived that the exercises now suggested may form a very useful and interesting addition to them.

An Edition of the Scripture References is published, with the Passages printed in full, for the use of Parents and Teachers when hearing the Lessons of their Children or Scholars. 3s. bds.
